INTRODUCTION

Mohammad: Hello everyone, My name is Mohammad.

Brandon: Hi, I'm Brandon. Welcome to PersianPod101.com. This is Absolute Beginner, Season 1, Lesson 1 - Saying Hello in Persian at Any Time of the Day.

Mohammad: We're going to be your hosts all through this "Persian Absolute Beginner Series". And we'll start with some lessons about introducing yourself.

Brandon: In this lesson, you'll learn how to say the key greetings in Persian. That's right, you'll get to know the basic greetings, from a conversation that takes place between two friends, Bahar and Shirin, who are talking on the phone.

Mohammad: During the conversation they'll greet each other, and since they're friends, they'll use informal Persian language.

Brandon: So, let's listen to the conversation carefully, and hear the phrases they use. Are you ready?

Mohammad: Ready. Let's go!

POST CONVERSATION BANTER

Brandon: So Mohammad! The word "Salam" is one of the most important parts of a conversation in Persian, right?

Mohammad: That's right. Salam is how you start a conversation, when you meet someone.

Brandon: So, would you tell us, where does the word originate from?

Mohammad: It's somewhat related to the word "Salamati," which means "health" in Persian.

Brandon: That's interesting, so it originally means "health".

Mohammad: Yes, there's even a well-known phrase, where we say "Salam salamati miare," meaning "Salam brings health".

Brandon: Interesting! And I remember hearing another famous line about "Salam" and "acquaintance", and something about a "nice scent". How did it go again?

Mohammad: It's a popular poem from Hafez that says, "Salami cho booye khoshe ashenayi", meaning "A "Hello" is like the good scent of acquaintance or friendship".

Brandon: I see. So it really is an important part of the Persian language.

KEY VOCAB AND PHRASES

Brandon: Now let's take a closer look at the usage of some of the key words and phrases used in this lesson. Our first word is...

Mohammad: Again, "Salam"!

Brandon: As we said earlier, this is a salutation meaning "Hello" in Persian. When and how can we use it, Mohammad?

Mohammad: It can be used at any time of the day, and by anyone, even by complete strangers who are meeting for the first time, or by best friends.

Brandon: And judging by our conversation, it's used everywhere, like for example over the phone.

Mohammad: Of course. Also in letters, messages, or when we talk to someone directly, we use "Salam".

Brandon: Great. Now let's move on to our second phrase, which is...

Mohammad: "Khodahafez".

Brandon: It means "Goodbye" or "Farewell", right?

Mohammad: That's right. It actually consists of two parts, "Khoda" and "Hafez", which mean "God" and "Protector", respectively

Brandon: So whenever you say "Goodbye" to someone, you're actually wishing the "Protection of God" for that person?

Mohammad: Exactly!

Brandon: That's nice! Let's repeat it again for our listeners.

Mohammad: "Khodahafez" (pause) "Khodahafez".

Brandon: Alright. Our last phrase is...

Mohammad: "می بینم" (Mibinamet).

Brandon: It means "See you".

Mohammad: Right. "می بینم" is a form of the verb "Didan," meaning "to see", which contains the present or future tense; in Persian (Mi), the subject pronoun "I," or (Am) in Persian, and the object "You," or (Et) in Persian, in itself.

Brandon: Wow! That's a complete sentence in just one word! Is it used often?

Mohammad: Not really. But again, it depends on the person and the situation.

Brandon: Let's say it one more time. Listeners, listen and repeat.

Mohammad: "Mibinamet" (pause) "Mibinamet".

Brandon: Okay. Now let's move on to the grammar.

GRAMMAR POINT

Brandon: In this lesson, you'll learn how to say "How are you?" in formal and informal ways.

Mohammad: There are so many different ways. The one we used in our conversation as informal speech was "Chetori?"

Brandon: This literally means "How are you?", but it's in singular form and it's only used for speaking with friends or close people like family members. What is the formal form of this?

Mohammad: That would be "Chetorid?," To make a verb plural, change the last "i" to an "id".

Brandon: Oh, so in order to make anything formal, you use its plural form?

Mohammad: Yes, that's the general rule.

Brandon: And what are the other informal ways of asking "How are you?"

Mohammad: " حالت چطوره؟" meaning "How are you feeling?", and " خوبی؟" which simply means "Are you fine?"

Brandon: Once again "How are you feeling?" is...

Mohammad: " حالت چطوره؟" (haalet chetore?).

Brandon: And its formal form?

Mohammad: " حالتان چطور است؟" (haaleetaan chetor ast?). It's plural even if used for only one person, and I would say, it's the most formal way of all.

Brandon: Okay. So, let's say I'm your boss! How would you ask me how I'm feeling?

Mohammad: " سلام آقا حالتان چطور است؟" (salaam aaghaha, haaleetaan chetor ast?).

Brandon: And if I'm your friend?

Mohammad: I would say: " چطوری؟ خوبی؟" (chetori? khoobi?). Just like in the conversation.

Brandon: The formal form of which will be " چطورید؟ خوبید؟" (chetorid? khoobid?), right?

Mohammad: That's right.

Brandon: Now, how do I have to respond to all of these? For example, how do I say "I'm fine"?

Mohammad: " من خوبم" (man khoobam), is the same as "I'm fine."

Brandon: Is this formal or informal?

Mohammad: It can be used for both situations. And it's usually followed by a short thanks, like "Mamnoon".
